Every plastic bag that ends up in the woodlands of the country threatens the natural progression of wildlife. Plastic is one of the few modern chemical materials that is not biodegradable. That is why it can remain in a landfill for millions of years and affect the crops. Research proves that one plastic bag, littering in the landfill, has the potential to unintentionally kill one animal every three months due to intake or inhalation. Plastic waste blocks drains and gutters, stopping the flow of rain water and causing an overflow that becomes the breeding ground for germs and bacteria causing many diseases. Thus plastic has spoiled the land in many ways.	ff	04

Most patients find it very difficult to talk to doctors about their fees, so they just pay whatever they are billed and console themselves with feeling ripped off. Many face unnecessary surgery because they are too abashed to seek out second or third surgical opinions. The ugly victim-syndrome shows itself again. If you can't talk to people about what they are charging you for services they are in business to provide, simply because you have elevated them so far above yourself that you cannot imagine their condescending to hear you, then you have set yourself up to be victimized every time you think about buying medical treatment, legal advice, education, etc. By conceding special titles like "doctor," "professor" or "sir" to these people, you are constantly putting yourself in inferior positions. The only result is that you feel victimized, and may will be victimized, because you cannot deal with them on equal footings. To avoid the victim snares of authority figures, you have to begin seeing them simply as human beings, no more important than you, who perform tasks they have been highly trained for, and for which you are therefore paying very highly. Remember that if anyone ought to be elevated in importance it is the person being served, the one paying the freight. You cannot give any person more esteem than you give yourself and expect to be treated as an equal. If you are not treated as an equal, you are a victim who must look up, ask permission, wait in line, hope for some nice treatment from your supervisor, trust that you won't be overcharged or done in by someone who won't discuss his charges, or does so in a patronizingly hasty manner. But all of this happens because you let it happen. Professional or authority figures will respect you if you command their respect, while treating them with courtesy for their professionalism, but never reacting with awe for their "superhuman" status or allowing them to victimize you in any other way.
